INTERNAL TRADE NOW IS ENORMOUS

Justness Within United States Double Entire International Commerce of the World.

TOTAL IS $22,000,000.000.

Of World's Imports, Amounting to $10,818,143,000, More Than 14 Per Cent Comes From America.

Washington, Oct. 15 .- The world's merce in the latest year for which statis ties are available is pictured in the annual report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statisties of the Department of Commerce and Labor, recently published.

It shows the total exports of all nations of the world to be in the latest year available $10,515,000,000, and the value of the total imports of all nations $11.800,000,000. This would give the total value of the world's imports and experts combined as $22,234,000,000, but since all articles which were counted as exports became in turn imports when they entered the country of destination, it would appear that the actual value of the articles entering into international commerce is, in round terms, 211 000 .00,000, The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics also estimates the value of the articles forming the internal commerce of the United States at about $22,000,000,000 in a single year. This estimate is formed by taking the census valuation of the manufactures, agricultural products, products of the fisheries and forests, and adding thereto the cost of transportation between producer and the first consumer and thus includes in the estimated value of the internal commerce only a single transaction in each merce only a single transaction in each article.

Thus, while it has been customary to speak of the internal commerce of the Inited States as equal to the entire international commerce of the world. It appears from this statement that the actual value of the merchandise entering into the internal commerce of the United States is practically twice as great as that entering the international commerce of the world since both imports and exports are stated in making up the world's commercial record, which shows the total value of the imports and exports combined as $22.000,000,000. In stating the internal commerce of the world two transactions in each article is included, while in stating the international commerce of the world two transactions in each article are stated, viz., the exports $10,515,600,600, and the imports (the same articles exported). $11,800,000,000, making a total of $22,24,000,000 of imports and exports combined.

Burope, of course, supplies a very large proportion of the world's international commerce both as to exports and imports. The exports of all the countries of the world and international commerce, combining imports and exports of the world and international commerce, combining imports and exports and exports.

Taking the world as a whole, exclusive of the United States, the imports amount to $6,895.

Taking the world as a whole, exclusive of the United States, the imports amount to $10,818,142,000, of which $1,800,000,000, or $1,700 per cent is from the United States.
